

FOLLOWING THE ACHP MODEL FOR BETTER HEALTH

The Alliance of Community Health Plans (ACHP) represents the nation's top-performing nonprofit health care organizations. ACHP member companies are provider-aligned, community health plans that offer high-quality, affordable coverage and care to over 22 million Americans across 35 states and DC. They are leading the industry in practical, proven reforms around primary care delivery, value-based payment and data-driven systems improvement.

The ACHP Approach

ACHP members take a unique approach to health care, putting the patient at the center with health plans and clinical teams collaborating to improve health outcomes and reduce costs. This collaborative, integrated approach is proven to consistently deliver better value for patients, employers and taxpayers.

ACHP plans serve more than 22 million Americans in 35 states and Washington, D.C.

The COVID-19 pandemic has highlighted well-known flaws in the current system – disjointed care delivery, lack of access to essential services and the financial fragility of providers – while also presenting a critical opportunity to improve the system. When considering improvements, policymakers should look to the examples of health plans and providers who collaboratively weathered the pandemic to continue delivering exceptional coverage and care to the communities they serve.

Stability for patients and providers through an integrated and aligned model

ACHP member plans and their provider partners are rooted in the communities they serve – and have been for decades. ACHP plans invest heavily in local provider organizations. Value-based, capitated payment arrangements between ACHP plans and their provider partners have helped clinicians stay in business during the COVID-19 crisis and continue to deliver essential care to patients. The robust relationships between doctors and their aligned health plans give patients peace of mind in these uncertain times. This aligned model is at the heart of who ACHP members are and illustrates how the system can work best.

ACHP plans have been in their communities

43
years

on average.

Coordinating care to provide a simple, seamless experience for patients

During a pandemic, the last thing patients need is the burden of navigating disparate elements of their health care in today's fragmented system. ACHP plans ensure that patients receive the care they need, when and where they need it. Alternate models of care cannot provide this level of service, leaving the burden of coordination on patients and their families. Patients enrolled in ACHP plans have the peace of mind that every time they touch the health care system, they do so with a trusted partner.

ACHP members have been in the vanguard of a reinvigorated health system that serves communities and delivers value. The nation now has the opportunity to learn from that leadership and bring the proven model of high quality, coordinated, capitated coverage and care to all Americans.

