

The American health care system has been underperforming for many years, despite life-saving scientific advances. Built on sick care, not wellbeing, our costly, fee-for-service system has been particularly challenged by the 2020 pandemic.

The Alliance of Community Health Plans (ACHP) offers a healthier way forward.

Health Care 2030: ACHP's Roadmap to Reform

With nonpartisan, practical changes for immediate and long-lasting improvements to the health care system, Roadmap 2030 provides a 10-year vision to transform the status quo and enhance the health of individuals and communities across the nation.

Actionable Proposals to Improve the Health of Communities and the Nation

Advance Collaborative Model to Promote Health

Strong relationships that align payers and providers toward a common goal improve health outcomes and reduce costs.

With incentives to deliver the right care at the right time in the right place, a collaborative model fosters high-quality coverage and care; strengthens primary care; and spurs innovation.

Complete the Journey from Volume to Value

A system focused on quality, not quantity, promotes and rewards evidence-based approaches that prioritize health outcomes.

Drawing from successful value-based models — such as those in Medicare Advantage — and rewarding value instead of volume can lower costs and improve care quality.

Put Health of Communities First

A community-based approach to health care puts the patient at the center — surrounded by clinicians, health plans and social service partners — to deliver personalized care.

Community-driven care assesses and addresses both clinical and social needs with a tailored approach.

ACHP envisions a better health care system devoted to affordability, effectiveness, equity, transparency and value. Together, these improvements will produce the best health outcomes for all and shape an American health care system for long-term sustainability and a healthier nation.
